Dear Professor Woodward

I wish to thank you for the contributions you have made to the Griffith Centre for Social and Cultural Research and Griffith University during your appointment as Adjunct Associate Professor since 6 April 2015.

I write to offer you a further appointment as Adjunct Professor in the Griffith Centre for Social and Cultural Research. Your appointment is made on the recommendation of the Director of the Centre, Professor Susan Forde and the Pro Vice Chancellor of the Group, Professor Paul Mazerolle. The appointment commenced on 6 April 2018 and will conclude 5 April 2020.

An Adjunct appointment recognises your leadership and standing in your professional community, your willingness to engage with students and scholars in your discipline and the value the University places on its relationship with you. The appointment of Adjuncts is one of the most significant ways in which the University builds relationships with disciplines and professions.

Adjuncts play an important role in the research, teaching and learning, and service of the University. If you have not already done so, can I encourage you to explore with your academic colleagues the different ways you can participate in the life and work of the University community. Some of the activities undertaken by our Adjuncts include occasional teaching in guest lectures and seminars, engagement in research partnerships between the University and other organisations, mentoring students, and advising on the development of research programs or courses and programs. I am certain you will find your Adjunct appointment offers many mutually stimulating and rewarding opportunities to engage with staff and students.

Your Adjunct appointment is separate from any remunerated work you may undertake for the University. The latter would be subject to a separate contract of employment.

You are expected to conduct your duties as an Adjunct Professor in accordance with the University's Code of Conduct and policies and procedures. The Code of Conduct is found on the University's website at the following address: http://policies.griffith.edu.au/pdf/Code of Conduct.pdf

I hope after reading this information, you decide to accept this appointment.

I look forward to your continuing association with the University.

Yours sincerely
