Teaching Portfolio / CV Klarissa Lueg, Head of Center for Narratological Studies (CNS)

I am an Associate Professor and the Head of the Center for Narratological Studies (CNS), University of Southern Denmark. I finished my second doctorate / habilitation (Dr.phil.habil.) at Europa-Universität Flensburg refereed by Monika Eigmüller, Michael Hartmann and Hauke Brunkhorst (Venia legendi: Sociology). I finished my first doctorate (Dr.phil) at the University of Technology Darmstadt, Germany, in Sociology, supervised by Michael Hartmann, in 2011, with highest distinction. Study subjects were Sociology, Communication Studies and Political Science at WWU Münster, Germany.

Experience: University Teaching

I offer courses on all university levels (B.A. - Ph.D.). Current courses at SDU are aligned with the activities of the Center for Narratological Studies and focus Management Communication, Organizational Communication, and Intercultural Communication in Business and Management Communication Programs. I have taught at Hamburg University, WWU Münster, University of Technology Darmstadt, Europa-Universität Flensburg, and Aarhus University.

2019	Narrative inquiry in the organization: concepts, methods, publishing (PhD.); A new paradigm? Introduction to CCO - Communication Constitutes Organization (Ph.D.); Business Communication (M.A.); Kommunikation og Kultur (B.A.); Management Communication (B.A.); Intercultural Business Communication (B.A.)
2018	Narrative inquiry in the organization: concepts, methods, publishing (PhD.); A new paradigm? Introduction to CCO - Communication Constitutes Organization (Ph.D.); Business Communication (M.A.); Kommunikation og Kultur (B.A.); Management Communication (B.A.); Intercultural Business Communication (B.A.)
2017	Branding Cultures (B.A.); Intercultural Business Communication (B.A.)
2016	Europa-Universität Flensburg: Intercultural and intersectional encounters in education and society (B.A.)
2015	Aarhus University: Academic Writing (B.A.); Developments in European media (M.A.); Media, markets, consumers (M.A.)
2014	Aarhus University: Media, markets, consumers (M.A.); Negotiation techniques (B.A.); Academic Writing (B.A.)

Experience: Supervision

I supervise B.A. and M.A. theses within the topics of organization studies; narrative theory and research; culture and the organization; group processes; sustainability; and higher education (management). Together with researchers from and affiliated with the Center for Narratological Studies I offer PhD courses for both domestic (SDU) and international students.

Formal and Informal Higher Education Qualification

Venia Legendi: Sociology, 2018, EUF, GUniversity Teacher Education (Adjunktpædagogikum), 2015, AU, DKSeveral Higher Education Teaching Courses, AU & SDU, DKTraining on Copyright and Legal Issues within Teaching, DJØF, Aarhus, DK

Research Positions

Since 2016: Assoc Prof Corporate Communication, Dept of Design and Communication, SDU, DK
2015-2016: PostDoc Sociology, Seminar f Soziologie, EUF. G
2013-2015: Asst Prof, Knowledge Communication, Aarhus School of Business and Social Sciences, AU, DK
2012-2013: PostDoc International Business Communication, AU, DK
2011-2012: Teaching Assistant, Center for Corporate Communication, AU, DK
2010-2011: Visting PhD, CCC, AU, DK
2008-2011: PhD Student on Scholarship, Sociology, TUD, G / Collegium Civitas Warsaw, PL

Experience: Study Administration

I have been course responsible for numerous courses on B.A. and M.A level, including selection and supervision of lecturers, tutors, and instructors. I have developed several B.A. and M.A. courses (TUD, HU, WWU, SDU, AU) in the following programs: Sociology, European Studies, Business Communication, Socioeconomics.
I am experienced in course and study program revision for accreditation purposes. I develop PhD courses with a view to doctorate education offered by the CNS.