Formal Educational Training

Educational training and mentoring, Pontifical Gregorian University, Rome.

Educational administrative tasks:

I have planned, coordinated and supervised teaching courses at Gregoriana University and Angelicum University of Rome, The Faculty of Theology at Notre Dame University in the United States, the Health Sciences Master's Program at SDU, prepared, held and evaluated optional courses at the Faculty of Health Sciences at SDU, and contributed to interview booths at Quote 2 uptake on the Medical Education at SDU. Have been in the education board for midwifery education in Esbjerg.

Experience with teaching, supervision and examination:

I have taught in theology, science theory, health psychology and public health science since 2000. I have held a large number of educational opportunities for medical students, public health education, PhD students, for graduates, midwives, doctors, etc., as I have taught patients and relatives in different contexts.

I have participated as an examiner in many oral and written exams and prepared exam questions for written exams. In addition, I have been the main supervisor of bachelor and master's projects as well as several PhD studies.

Methods, materials and tools:

I work with student activating methods, inspired by Albert Bandura's Social Learning Theory (1977), focusing on ownership and personal leadership in learning. Have participated in the development of teaching materials.
