Teaching philosophy

Teaching philosophy:

Teaching is the art of fostering the appropriate spirit and mentality of the audience to become eager to dedicate effort and time to understand the core of the elements taught

– C. R. Flor

The above statement captures many key elements in my view on teaching. In more detail, it encompasses four cornerstones which are central in any teaching contexts: the audience, the core elements, effort, and understanding. Thinking about these elements are crucial in structuring the material and designing the pedagogical methods and tools employed.

Teaching competences

2002-2003: Lecture training program (pedagogical course for assistant professors).

2008: Undervisningsteknik for universitetslærere (teaching techniques for university instructors), based on Bjarne Herskin's book.

2008-2009: SDU's course for PhD supervisors

2014: Teaching in English at SDU -- certified as C1 level teacher
