Pedagogical idea

In my teaching, I emphasize the student's critical thinking and their ability to analyse topics that are relevant to the subject. Therefore, the starting point for my teaching is often based on examples from the students' everyday life with a view to analyse these examples. Along the way, it is the aim to take the analysis to a higher and higher abstraction level.

It is also the intention of my teaching to introduce the students to the subject's methods of producing knowledge and to engage the students in knowledge production.

Thus, the overall aim of my teaching is to give the students room for reflection, curiosity and immersion within the subject area.
